COUNTY OFFICIAL PAPER.
Saturday, July 28, 1906.

D. E. O'KEEFE, EDITOR AND PROPRIETOR

POLITICS WARMING UP

The Republican Convention Will Be Held at Santa Cruz Sept. 6.

The time is approaching when the voters will be given an opportunity to express their choice for Governor and other state officers. The Republican county committee will soon issue a call for the primaries when delegates may be voted for to attend the convention to be held at Santa Cruz on September 6th. Many names are mentioned for Governor, among whom are Doctor Pardee, the incumbent, Warren Porter, Congressman Gillette and Ex-Governor Gage. Gillette at present appears to have the lead in the race and is making a splendid campaign throughout the state. Without doubt Mr. Gage would be the popular candidate for the place if he would make a positive announcement that he was an aspirant for Governor. He is popular with the masses, able and conservative and gave the state the most economical administration that has ever been given by any governor. If nominated his election would be assured. Governor Pardee does not deserve well at the hands of the people of this county. He has on all occasions refused to grant any of their requests though many favors have been asked of him. We doubt if he will secure a delegate from this county. He certainly deserves none.

State Printer Shannon has made a splendid officer and will be nominated and re-elected as will Controller Colgan and Secretary of State Charles Curry. It is to be regretted that Surveyor General Victor H. Woods has concluded to retire for he has made a popular and efficient officer and would have been nominated and re-elected. Congressman E. A. Hayes, during his short time at Washington has made a splendid record, one that he and the Fifth District may well feel proud of. He has accomplished more for the district and state in the short time he has been in office than some of his predecessors did in years. Such men as Hayes should be kept in Congress. He has displayed wonderful industry and energy and tact in the discharge of his duties. Being a man of wealth he can devote all his time in working for the interests of his constituents and not have his term taken up by his private business. Mr. Hayes should be returned to Congress by a pronounced majority.

There is as yet very little doing in local politics. Many names are mentioned for the various offices but candidates are somewhat shy in making announcements. No doubt within the next few weeks things will shape themselves so aspirants will come into the open and declare themselves.

Death of George Bement.

George Bement, a former resident of this county, passed away at his home in Fruitvale after a long and painful illness Thursday. Deceased came to San Mateo county in the early days and followed the occupation of farming and stock raising. For a long period of time he leased the old McGarvey ranch of the grade. Being a fancier of race horses he bred a large number of trotters and roadsters and blooded cattle. He was sure to capture the prizes at all fairs held at Sacramento in those times. Mr. Bement was an honest, upright gentleman, respected by all who had dealings with him. He moved to Fruitvale about eighteen years ago and since then accumulated considerable property there. His death will be a matter of deep regret by his numerous friends in the county.

Besides his wife, he leaves to mourn him, two sons and two daughters, William Bement of this city, Caleb Bement of Oakland, Mrs. Claude Fox of Redwood and Mary Bement of Fruitvale.

Self Reliance.

In his address at the Georgetown College recently President Roosevelt dwelt upon the importance of Self-Reliance in students, and said:

"Of course the first duty of each of you is to earn his own livelihood. Your first business is to be a help not a burden upon those who have helped put you through this institution of learning. That is your first duty. I do not want you to go out so intent upon reforming the world that you are quite unable to keep your own heads above water. Remember that your power of doing good to others is conditioned upon your not being a burden to others. First be able to hold your own in the world. But if you make that the be all and end all of your existence, better never come to a university like this at all. Treat it merely as laying the foundation of your life, and upon that foundation of self-help, of self-service, raise the lofty structure of service for your fellows, of service to the state, of service to the community as a whole."

One of Jack London's Best.

In the August McClure's Jack London has a story that in its vigor and power must rank with his very best. He sets the scene in the country he likes most, Alaska, and with incidents of a most thrilling and bizarre kind, hammers out a remarkable narrative of a man's willful murder of two mining companions, of long weary weeks kept over him at risk of body and brain, by the remaining man and his wife, and the final hanging of the culprit by the woman in the presence of a group of Indians herded at the gun point to be witnesses of the event. It will be remembered that Mr. London's last story in McClure's "Love of Life," was based upon an actual occurrence; as Mr. London declared when some facts of the story were brought into question. This new story is also a real human document, based upon an incident well known among Alaskans; the hanging of Michael Denkin by Mrs. Edith Nelson which took place at Latuya Bay in 1900. The story is powerfully illustrated by four full page pictures in color by E. L. Blumenschein.

Carnegie Heard From.

After the earthquake of April 18th which put many public buildings out of commission the library trustees began to look around for ways and means of repairing the library building which had received a knock out blow.

A conference was called with Architect Coffey who had planned the structure and Mr. Coffey estimated that necessary repairs would cost in the neighborhood of $6000. As the trustees did not see their way clear to raise so large an amount locally, they decided to again enlist the good services of Andrew Carnegie who had given the original $10,000 with which to erect the library. Pictures of the demolished structure were accordingly taken and forwarded with an appeal to Mr. Carnegie for aid. Without delay the Laird of Skibo ordered the following letter sent, which shows his generous spirit.

Skibo Castle, Dornoch, Sutherland, B. F. Cooper, Esq., Board of Library Trustees, Redwood, San Mateo county, Cal.

Dear Sir: In response to yours of June 11th, I am to say that Mr. Carnegie will be glad to pay the $6,000 required to pay the cost of rebuilding the library building destroyed by the earthquake and has instructed his cashier accordingly.

Respectfully yours, JAS. BATRAM, P. Sec.

COUNTY BOND ELECTION

There Is Every Indication That the Bonds Will Be Carried.

On August 15th the county bond election will be held to determine whether $150,000 of San Mateo county bonds shall be voted to rebuild the courthouse.

The supervisors after learning from competent experts the extent of the damage to the building determined upon a bond issue as the most expeditious means of raising the needed money and at the same time the method that would be fairest to the taxpayers of the county. The proposition is meeting with favor and there is every sign of its carrying by a large vote.

It is imperative that the courthouse be built and built as soon as possible. For the first four years there will only be the interest paid on the bonds which will be comparatively small. After that the average rate will be three and one half per cent on the $100 of taxable property. This certainly will be a burden on no one.

Tax payers will not feel it. It is to the interest that the bonds carry. Should they fail to carry, which is hardly possible, the supervisors knowing the need of a courthouse, would be compelled to use their prerogative and levy a direct tax, the same as they did in the past. This would indeed be a heavy burden to place on the shoulders of the already heavily laden property owners, but the county is in need of a building to keep its records and transact its business and it must be erected. The easiest way out of the difficulty, is to vote for the bond issue on August 15th. They run for a period of four years and the future generation who will enjoy all the benefits of the building will help pay for it. By all means vote for the bonds.
